

Interview and audition guidelines

For 2020-21, auditions will be conducted via self-taped video only. Instead of an interview, we ask applicants to self-tape a personal statement where you tell us more about yourself and the pieces you've chosen. Please see notes below for guidance. We also plan to hold virtual applicant sessions post offer, where you can meet some of the Acting team and learn more about the course.

Audition pieces

For your audition, you should prepare two pieces: a speech from a play by William Shakespeare, in blank verse and a speech from a Modern or Contemporary play. Try to choose at least one speech that you feel is close to you or which you can identify with. Choose the other piece to reveal a different side of your abilities. In preparing the speeches you should have read and be familiar with the plays from which they have been taken so that you understand the character and the context within which they find themselves.

You will also be asked to discuss your choices and the plays they come from in your self-taped personal statement.

When choosing and preparing your audition speeches please consider the following:

- Each piece should be approximately 1-2 minutes long when performed.
- Choose pieces that speak to you, that get you excited to perform them. Don't try to pick pieces that you think we will like. Pick pieces that YOU like!
- Try to avoid speeches from the "Best Monologues of..." books. Read plays and look for something a bit unusual or less obvious.
- Choose pieces that are ACTIVE. Pieces in which the character wants something, now, from someone else. The "someone else" might be a character in the play or could be the audience. (See the samples below). Avoid "story pieces" in which the character is relating a previous event. The best pieces involve the character doing something NOW.

Video guidelines

You will be required to film yourself enacting your two selected speeches. The video you produce should be filmed at mid-shot (not too close or too distant) and the piece should not be edited. Please title the video to include the play, character and scene. Alternatively, you may choose to introduce the speech on camera before beginning.

You should be prepared to speak your pieces, as much as possible, directly to the camera. If your character is speaking to one other person, for instance, then you may imagine the camera is that person. If your character speaks to a number of other people, then you may speak to imaginary people off-camera, if necessary.

We also ask you to provide a taped session in which you talk directly to us, telling us about yourself, why you want to be an actor and giving us an insight into who you are (max. 5 minutes). Please respond to the following questions:

- Why did you choose these audition pieces?
- Why do you want to be an actor? Why do you want to study on the BA (Hons) Acting course at the Arts University Bournemouth?
- Which artists or practitioners inspire you and why?

You may also like to include any additional information that you think might help us to get a picture of you and your individual talents and personality. Please upload to a website, for example You Tube and send us the link. Do not use password protected sites.

Example speeches

Below are examples of the kind of pieces you might consider. Please do not use these pieces for your own auditions. We want to see what YOU choose!

Male Quotations Shakespeare Plays

A Midsummer Night's Dream

Character: Lysander

'Content with Hermia? No; I do repent the tedious minutes I with her have spent. Not Hermia, but Helena I love. Who will not change a raven for a dove? The will of man is by his reason swayed and reason says you are the worthier maid. Things growing are not ripe until their season; So I, being young, till now ripe not to reason. And touching now the point of human skill, reason becomes the marshal to my will, and leads me to your eyes, where I o'erlook love's stories written in love's richest book.'

Male Quotations Contemporary Plays

The Seagull by Anton Chekhov – Character: Kostya

'You see? My mother doesn't love me. No wonder. She wants to live, have affairs, wear bright clothes, and I'm twenty-five already, a constant reminder to her that she's no longer young. She's thirty-two when I'm not here, and forty-three when I am, that's why she hates me. And she knows I've no time for the theatre. She loves the theatre, she thinks she's serving humanity, a sacred art, but as far as I'm concerned the theatre of today's stuck in a rut, boring and conventional.'

Pygmalion by Bernard Shaw – Character: Higgins

'Eliza: you are to live here for the next six months, learning how to speak beautifully, like a lady in a florist's shop. If you're good and do whatever you're told, you shall sleep in a proper bedroom, and have lots to eat, and money to buy chocolates and take rides in taxis. If you're naughty and idle you will sleep in the back kitchen among the black beetles, and be walloped by Mrs Pearce with a broomstick. At the end of six months you shall go to Buckingham Palace in a carriage, beautifully dressed. If the King finds out you're not a lady, you will be taken by the police to the Tower of London, where your head will be cut off as a warning to other presumptuous flower girls. If you are not found out, you shall have a present of seven-and-sixpence to start life with as a lady in a shop. If you refuse this offer you will be a most ungrateful wicked girl; and the angels will weep for you. (To Pickering) Now are you satisfied, Pickering? (To Mrs Pearce) Can I put it more plainly and fairly, Mrs Pearce?'

Female Quotations Shakespeare Plays

Romeo and Juliet – Character: Juliet

'The clock struck nine when I did send the Nurse; In half an hour she promised to return. Perchance she cannot meet him: that's not so. O, she is lame! Love's heralds should be thoughts, which ten times faster glides than the sun's beams, driving back shadows over low'ring hills; Therefore do nimble-pinioned doves draw love, And therefore hath the windswift Cupid wings. Now is the sun upon the high most hill of this day's journey, and from nine till twelve is three long hours, yet she is not come.'

A Midsummer Night's Dream – Character: Helena

'Wherefore was I to this keen mockery born? When at your hands did I deserve this scorn? Is't not enough, is't not enough young man, that I did never, no, nor never can, deserve a sweet look from Demetrius' eye, but you must flout my insufficiency? Good troth, you do me wrong, good sooth, you do, in such disdainful manner me to woo! But fare you well: perforce, I must confess, I thought you lord of more true gentleness. O, that a lady of one man refused should of another therefore be abused!'

Female Quotations Contemporary Plays Les Liaisons

Dangereuses by Christopher Hampton –

Character: Merteuil

'I had no choice, did I, I'm a woman. Women are obliged to be far more skilful than men, because who ever wastes time cultivating inessential skills? You think you put as much ingenuity into winning us as we put into losing: well, it's debatable, I suppose, but from then on, you hold every ace in the pack. You can ruin us whenever the fancy takes you: all we can achieve by denouncing you is to enhance your prestige. We can't even get rid of you when we want to: we're compelled to unstitch, painstakingly, what you would just cut through. We either have to devise some way of making you want to leave us, so you'll feel too guilty to harm us; or find a reliable means of blackmail: otherwise you can destroy our reputation and our life with a few well-chosen words. So of course I had to invent: not only myself, but ways of escape no one else has ever thought of, not even I, because I had to be fast enough on my feet to know now to improvise. And I've succeeded, because I always knew I was born to dominate your sex and avenge my own.'

Pygmalion by Bernard Shaw – Character: Liza

(Desperate) 'Oh, you are a cruel tyrant. I can't talk to you: you turn everything against me: I'm always in the wrong. But you know very well all the time that you're nothing but a bully. You know I can't go back to the gutter, as you call it, and that I have no real friends in the world but you and the Colonel. You know well I couldn't bear to live with a low common man after you two; and it's wicked and cruel of you to insult me by pretending I could. You think I must go back to Wimpole Street because I have nowhere else to go but father's. But don't you be so sure that you have me under your feet to be trampled on and talked down.'
